

Cookie Policy

1. Introduction

- 1.1. 6i Group Limited (hereafter "6iTrade" or the "Company") is a Firm incorporated and registered under the laws of the Republic of the Marshall Islands with registration number 88796.
- 1.2. As all professional websites, our Company's Website uses Cookies to improve our users visiting experience. This document describes what information the Cookies gather, how We use the information and why We sometimes need to store these Cookies. We will also share how you can prevent these Cookies from being stored however this may downgrade or conflict with certain elements of the Website's functionality.
- 1.3. This Policy forms part of the Client's Agreement, namely, the 'Terms and Conditions' with the Company, thus the Client is also bound by the terms of the Policy, as set out herein.

2. Definition of a Cookie

- 2.1. A Cookie (also called Web Cookie, Internet Cookie, Browser Cookie, HTTP Cookie) is a small piece of data sent from a website and if allowed by the user is stored on the user's computer by the user's web browser while the user is browsing. Cookies were designed to be a reliable mechanism for websites to remember information. They can also be used to remember arbitrary pieces of information that the user previously entered into form fields such as names and addresses. Different types of Cookies perform essential functions in the modern web.

3. Use of Essential and Non-Essential Cookies

- 3.1. These are cookies that are required for the smooth operation of the Company's Website.
- 3.2. Authentication Cookies. Are the most common method used by the Company's Website servers to know whether the Client is logged in or not, and which account they are logged in with. Without such a mechanism, the website would not know whether to send a page containing sensitive information, or require the user to authenticate themselves by logging in.
- 3.3. Analytical/Performance Cookies. They allow Us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around the Company's Website. This helps to improve the way the Company's Website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily.
- 3.4. Functionality Cookies. These are used to recognise you when you return to the Company's Website. This enables the Company to personalise content for our Clients and remember our users preferences (for example, our users choice of language or region).

4. Disabling Cookies

- 4.1. We use Cookies for a variety of reasons detailed above. Unfortunately, in most cases there are no industry standard options for disabling Cookies without completely disabling the functionality and features they add to website. It is recommended that you accept and leave on all Cookies if you are not sure whether you need them or not, in case they are used to provide a service that you use and need.

- 4.2. You can prevent the setting of Cookies by adjusting the settings on your browser (see your browser Help for how to do this). Be aware that Disabling Cookies will affect the functionality of the Company's Website and many other websites that you visit.

5. Company's Cookies

- 5.1. If a Client creates an account, then the Company will use Cookies for the management of the Registration process and general administration. These Cookies will usually be deleted when the Clients log out however in some cases they may remain afterwards to remember website preferences.
- 5.2. The Company uses Cookies when the Client is logged in so that the Company can remember this fact. This prevents the Client from having to log in every single time a new page is visited. These Cookies are typically removed or cleared on log out to ensure that the Client can only access secure 'Client Areas' and other restricted areas when logged in.

6. Third Party Cookies

- 6.1. In some special cases the Company's also use Cookies provided by trusted Third Parties. The following section details which Third Party cookies you might encounter through the Company's website.
- 6.2. This Company Website uses Google Analytics which is one of the most widespread and trusted analytics solutions on the web for helping to understand how the Website is used and ways that We can improve user experience. These Cookies may track things such as how long is spent on the Website and the pages that have been visited so the Company can continue to produce engaging content for its Clients. For more information on Google Analytics cookies, see the official Google Analytics page.
- 6.3. From time to time the Company may test new features and make subtle changes to the way that the Website is delivered. Cookies may be used to ensure that Clients receive a consistent experience whilst on the Website during any testing whilst ensuring We understand which optimisations our users appreciate the most.
- 6.4. Several partners advertise on our behalf and Introducing Broker and Affiliate Tracking Cookies simply allow the Company to see if Clients have come to the Company Website through one of our Partners, so We can monitor correctly and, where applicable, we can credit them appropriately.

7. Updates

- 7.1. The Company will perform a periodical review of this Policy, at least once a year, to ensure that the Policy remains in line with the Company's operational model, and therefore in case of any changes in the operations, these will be properly reflected and updated in this policy. Clients will not be notified of any changes to this Policy and it remains the Clients responsibility to continually review the Cookie policy on a regular basis for any such updates.